

Bargain of the week

IF you're moving house; redecorating, a night worker, or a mum with a young baby then BLINDSINABOX is for you.

These temporary instant blinds are ideal for the "living out of a suitcase" stage of moving. The pleated paper blinds need no tools and fix on to any window or frame with a self adhesive strip and are available in white or blackout. They simply drop down and provide 'quick fix' temporary privacy appreciated by any home owner looking to unpack and settle into a new property without the gaze of the outside world. Clips are provided to keep the blinds up during the day. BLINDSINABOX may well be familiar to you as the company received investment from James Caan and Duncan Bannatyne on the hit BBC2 TV programme Dragon's Den.

For £39.10 (plus p&p), you get six blinds per box (either black or white). But a £5 promotional discount is being offered on each box for any orders placed in April. To claim, quote promotional code RP1 when ordering on line at blindsinabox.co.uk. BLINDSINABOX are also stocked in Argos stores.
