GEMINI SEARCH GAIN ENTRY TO SUNDAY TIMES BEST SMALL COMPANIES TO WORK FOR LIST

High flying integrated communications Recruitment Company Gemini Search gain entry to Sunday Times 100 list after only three years of business.

- Gemini ranks 8th on list
- One of only 35 recruiters, 5th highest
- Formed in 2011, already at 59 permanent staff
- "I'm delighted that recognition has been given for what's at the heart of our business values; investing in our people." James Caan CBE

The highly prestigious Sunday Times 100 Best Small Companies to work for list has been announced this week with Gemini Search ranking for the first time. In what has been a whirlwind three years since its conception, Gemini Search has grown to over 60 people and gaining entry to the list is the latest accolade to be awarded to this highly ambitious company.

This coveted list covers every industry and sector in the UK and is a rigorous process consisting of long detailed submissions and every member of staff receiving anonymous questionnaires to share their views on how Gemini Search operates.

The Best Companies accreditation survey places great emphasis on the views of employees, with the ranking being awarded based on the scores achieved from feedback on areas such as, Personal Growth, Wellbeing, Giving Back, Belonging and Leadership.

This is the first year the company has entered, and been ranked with a three star accreditation. This is a great accolade for the company in only its third year of business. They have ranked 8th on the list and are the 5th highest recruitment company to be awarded a ranking.

Reflecting on Gemini's success, Chairman, James Caan CBE said;

"This is a real achievement for a business that's just in its third year and I'm delighted that recognition has been given for what's at the heart of our business values; investing in our people. Successful businesses are all about people, and this accolade is testament to Gemini who have created an environment that their staff want to work in; one that promotes passion and drive, but most importantly helps them to achieve their career aspirations."

Michelle Watson, Managing Director, Gemini Search also commented that "Being recognised as one of The Sunday Times Best 100 Best Small Companies to work for in only our third year of business is a phenomenal achievement. It represents the real essence of our organisation; the people. I'm extremely proud to be part of a company that has created such a unique and inspiring culture; where the employees invest incredible time and effort into everything we do. This listing is testament to Gemini's success and something the whole team can take pride in."
